Dear Dr. Westcott and Staff,

It is with great pleasure we send our best regards. Although a year has passed since our son, Kurt has received eye therapy, we thought this was the best opportunity to write and express our gratitude for the achievement, professionalism, guidance, intuition, work ethics and encouragement that was provided in eye therapy, eye exams and follow ups during the eight months Kurt was with you.

At first we were cautious about the prescribed plan. However, we consider ourselves, more directly our Son, blessed for deciding to follow the therapy to correct his eye vision issues. It literally was not more than two weeks when we noticed the incredible and profound change and influence. Kurt picked up a book for enjoyment and read the entire book within weeks, wanting more. This passion for reading has increased and by no means has slowed down. This was something Dr. Westcott discussed and brought to our attention as a by product of the therapy Kurt would notice. To his credit he was 110% correct in his assessment on all levels. Kurt's school work became less confrontational, he developed a passion for reading for fun and several side benefits have occurred from the therapy in sports, speech contest, music and dance to name just a few.

We are very pleased and consider the eye appointments, follow ups and therapy to be the best investment we have ever made with the returns exceeding expectations. To be quite honest, priceless! During this past year Kurt has experienced a positive change to his behavior and confidence. Again, Dr. Westcott specifically annotated the following issues would be addressed and improvement would be noticed. He was correct. Kurt's eye teaming and visual tracking was enhanced allowing for improved attention to task, hand eye coordination, handwriting, visualization and memory skills as well as reduction in frustration, while also eliminating Kurt's primary concerns of headaches, blurred vision, double vision, eyestrain, and poor reading habits to name just a few. Our testament to this therapy is one we believe is due to the incredible results we get to see every day.

There is a great deal of work that must go into therapy by both patient and therapist. We would like to specifically give credit to the work and care that came from the following individuals we worked with.

Dr. Westcott, for his diagnosis, intuition, comprehensive Visual Efficiency and Visual Information Processing Test and results, listening and understanding. Mrs. Ann Marie, in scheduling appointments and ensuring all necessary administration was conducted thoroughly and professionally, as well as her friendly demeanor. Therapist Wendy, for her skills, honesty, persistence and confidence. Lastly, all of you for demonstrating and instilling a positive attitude, focus and determination in Kurt.

We hope our words are a pathway to encourage other parents to pursue eye therapy thus receiving tangible results and benefits it can provide to each child who completes it. We wish you continued success through the eyes of all the children you reach.

Very respectfully,

Mr. and Mrs. K
